CAC Charge

The CAC Charge states that the Cedar-Isles Community Advisory Committee members shall:

- become knowledgeable about the MPRB master planning process;
- understand the history of the park land and how it may inform future design and policy decisions;
- understand and balance the complexities between programming and recreation needs with natural space and preservation needs;
- understand the values and needs for the Minneapolis regional park system and its community and the values and needs of the local community;
- inform and listen to community about the project;

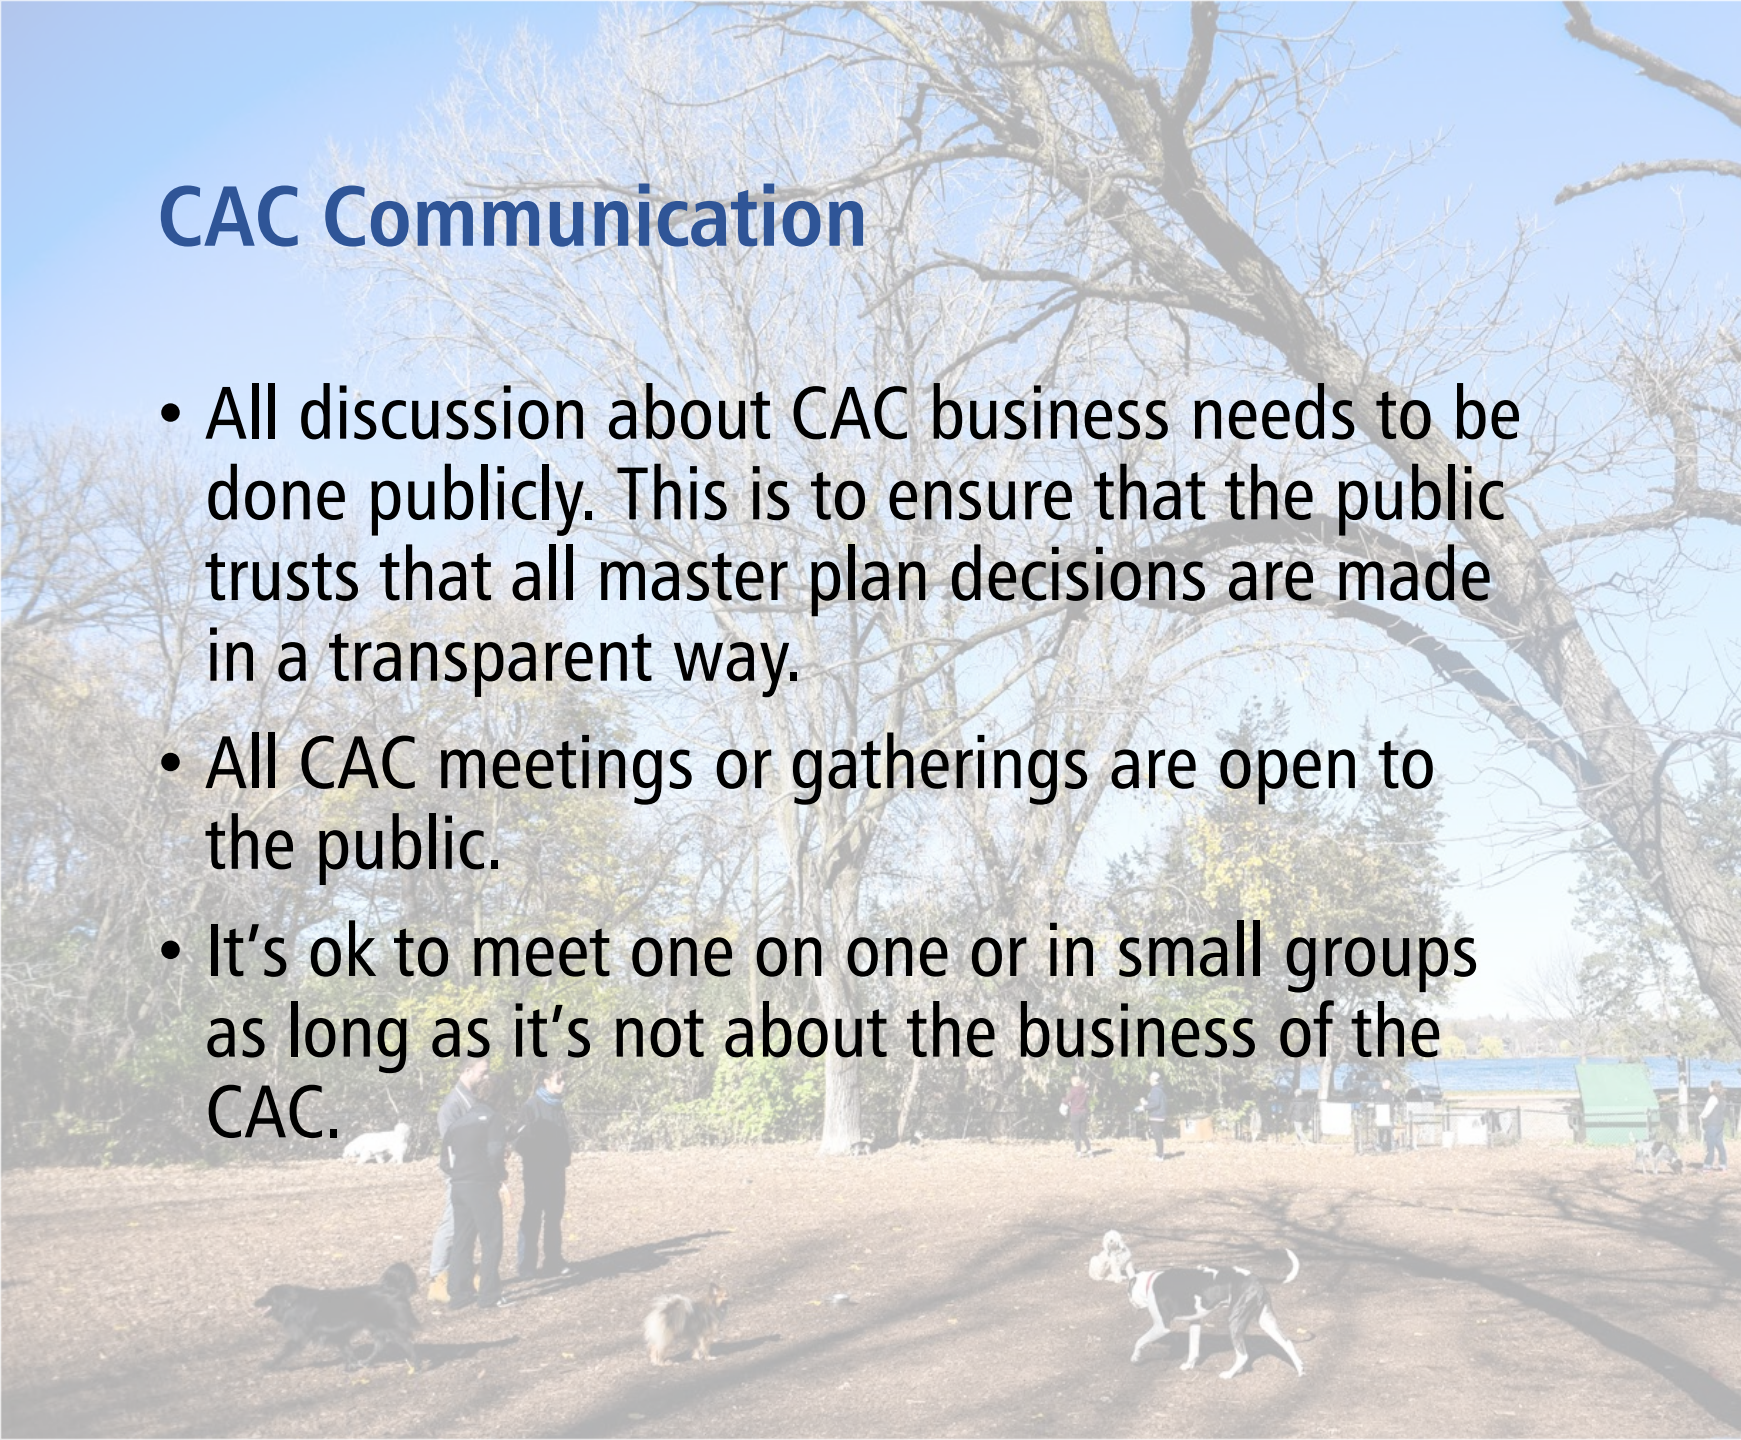

A scenic view of a lake at sunset. In the foreground, there is a paved walkway and a tall, dark light pole with a square, glass-enclosed light fixture. A metal railing runs along the edge of the walkway. The lake is calm, reflecting the sky and the distant city skyline. The sun is low on the horizon, creating a warm, golden glow. The sky is filled with soft, wispy clouds.

- help identify communities, organizations, user groups, populations and others that should be consulted in the engagement process;
- report back to appointers or appointing bodies, as requested, on the plan process, information presented, and possible recommendations;
- engage in working groups and subcommittees as needed;
- provide feedback on a draft plan;
- make recommendations about the project to the MPRB Board of Commissioners; and
- abide by the Community Engagement Policy.

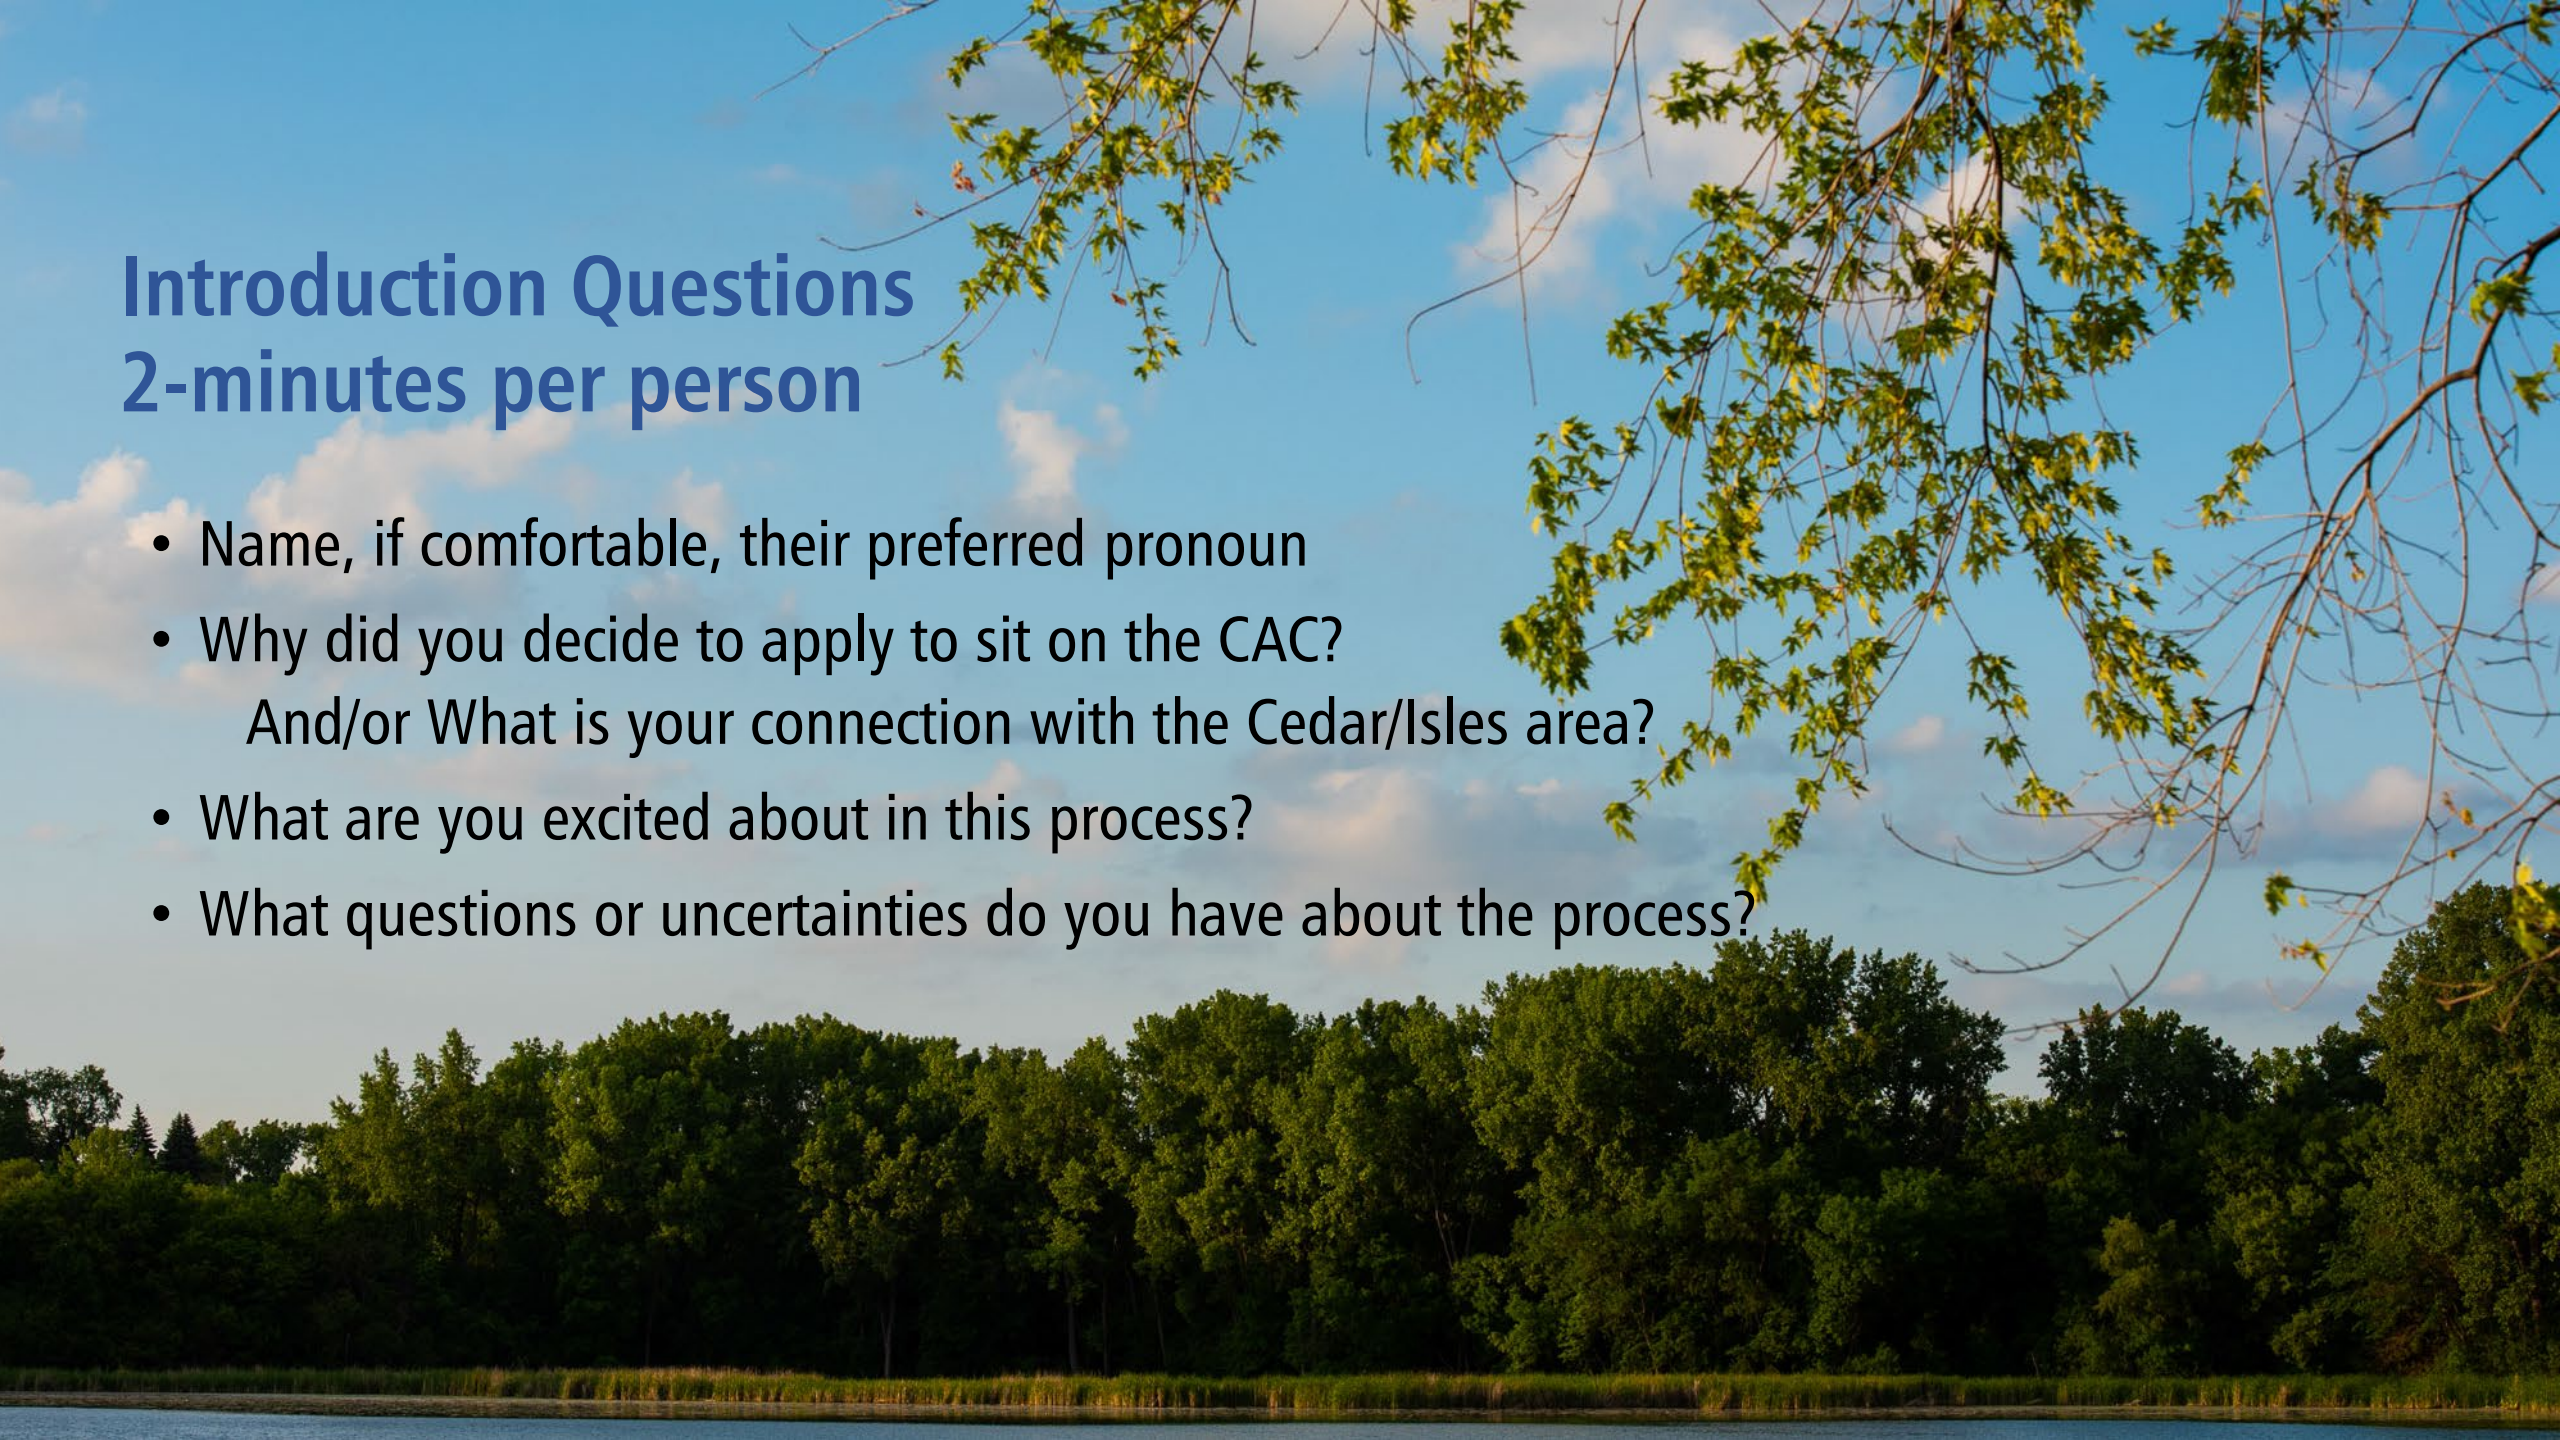

CAC Communication

- All discussion about CAC business needs to be done publicly. This is to ensure that the public trusts that all master plan decisions are made in a transparent way.
- All CAC meetings or gatherings are open to the public.
- It's ok to meet one on one or in small groups as long as it's not about the business of the CAC.
