

Elmer Says...

Trees have a trunk, branches, leaves, flowers, and fruit!

A tree is made of many things, but these are the parts that are most visible to you!

The trunk of the tree delivers water and food to the rest of the tree from the roots! The trunk is made up of bark, which helps protect the tree.

Tree branches take over for the trunk to help the tree's leaves get water and food. Branches can also be homes for birds and animals!

Leaves come in all kinds of different shapes and sizes. Leaves have teeny tiny holes on their undersides that help the tree breathe and change sunlight and air into energy!

Flowers and fruit are more than just pretty parts of a tree. Not only do they provide food for birds, animals and people, they also make seeds to make sure that their species lives on!
